News Release

Help ensure all children in Colorado have access to summer meals

One in six children in Colorado don't have access to foods needed to thrive. Kids that miss out on proper nutrition during the summer are more likely to experience learning loss and develop long-term health consequences. The Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) is about serving kids across the community free breakfast, lunch, snack, and supper all summer long when they do not have access to school lunch or breakfast. The SFSP provides free, nutritious meals to children 18 years of age and under at approved sites in areas with high concentrations of low-income children.

To find summer meal sites, visit kidsfoodfinder.org or text 'Food' or 'Comida' to 877-877.

This institution is an equal opportunity provider.
